Dear Colleagues:

I'm pleased to announce that in December 2017, Chilliwack based Gerry Enns Contracting (GEC) joined the Emil Anderson Construction (EAC) Group of Companies. EAC, along with affiliated company Dilworth Quality Homes, has been a successful land developer and builder in Kelowna and other areas of the Okanagan since 1989. Chilliwack is a rapidly growing market and this merger with GEC fulfills an EAC goal to geographically expand its development and building into the Fraser Valley.

GEC is a successful and well managed residential, commercial and industrial builder that operates throughout the Fraser Valley. GEC is BCCSA Core Certified, a member of the Vancouver Regional Construction Association (VRCA), and a proud member of the Chilliwack Chamber of Commerce. GEC has an outstanding reputation and industry brand and is recognized for quality of work, customer service and community support. The values and cultures of GEC and EAC align very well and this merger will enhance both businesses into the future.

EAC has been an Industry leader in B.C. since the 1940's. This January I will start to work with Rob Hasell the President of the EAC Group to establish a clear, concise vision and strategy for success and growth of EAC and GEC in property development and building construction respectively.

The businesses will run independently from one another and it will very much be business as usual for both firms. EAC recently purchased development land in Chilliwack with the intent to construct a for lease commercial building. This will be the first jointly performed project and it is our intent that EAC will become one of GEC's significant clients and that each company will assist each other wherever feasible and beneficial for both.

We are very excited about the future and the available opportunities that will grow both businesses in 2018 and beyond.

Yours truly,

Gerry Enns
President GEC
